Recommendation Made that the Payment of Present Salaries to Officials be Enjoined-Committee Reports as to the Class of the City.

Mr. C. N. Hunt presided at a meeting of the executive committee of the Taxpayers league last evening. J. J. Breen, Dave Anderson and Tom O'Netll were appointed at the last meeting to ascertain whether or not the newly appointed city engineer, Herman Beal, was a citizen. Messrs. Breen and Anderson made separate reports. Breen ascertained that Beal was a republican, a property owner, a voter, a good engineer and had worked in this city last summer Mr. Anderson said even if Beal was compe tent he was opposed to the administration going outside the city to get a man when there was good material at home. Both reports were accepted. Mr. Ritchhart stated that there never had been a city engineer ap-pointed in South Omaha who was a resident at the time he was appointed.

The special committee appointed to inves tigate the class of the city of South Omaha reported. C. N. Hunt and J. C. Carroll signed the report, but Mr. Breen refused to do so until after the league had outlined t the council what was desired. The majority the council what was desired. The majority report is as follows:

Prior to 1891 the city of South Omaha was a city of the first class, under the act making all cities of over 8,000 and under 25,000 inhabitants cities of the first class; but in the winter of 1891 the legislature passed an act in direct conflict with the former provisions, raising the standard of cities of the first class from 8,000 to 10,000 as a minimum of population, and bases the same on the census of 1890 and other census os taken by law, etc. In the year 1890, or according to to the census of 1890, the population of the city of South Omaha was less than 9,000, and under the said act of the legislature it became and is a city of the second class, fir we are a city of the second class, then we must, or our council must, be governed by the laws governing cities of the second class in fixing salaries, making levies, entering into contracts, etc.

Your committee also finds that our present mayor and council were elected under the banner of reform, favoring reduction of taxation, salaries, etc.; in fact, under an understanding, at least, that the city would be run as a city of the second class, at least as far as the expenses of the running of the city government were concerned.

Your committee also finds that the present administration has wholly failed to carry out the reforms promised, but on the very contrary has raised salaries, and in some instances to the very maximum figure that the law would allow under a city of the first class, which your committee believes they had no right to do, and so recommends that the acts of the mayor and city council in the matter of fixing these salaries were wholly illegal and without authority of law; and your committee further recommends that the Taxpayers league enjoin the payment of all salaries to officers in excess of the mayor and city council in the matter of fixing these salaries were wholly illegal and without authority of law; and your committee further recommends that the Taxpayers league enjoin

The report was adopted and will go to the meeting of the league next Tuesday Mr. Richhart said he did not conside that the increase in salaries as indicated in the new ordinance would increase the ex-penses in the offices designated. Mr. Cross said the mayor and council should be given an opportunity to explain before condemning them. Mr. Anderson claimed that dur-ing the campaign Mr. Johnston had stated that South Omaha would not need any city engineer this year, and he could not under-stand why he did not practice what he preached. As to city attorney, he believed preached. As to city attorney, he believed a salary of $600 was enough, and the council had acted unwisely in voting away $600 of the taxpayers' money.

Mr. Lane spoke in favor of having the question of the class of South Omaha settled at once. He gave Mayor Johnston a lefthanded slap on the course he had pursued since taking the oath of office. Before elec-tion Mr. Johnston, he said, talked economy, said South Omaha was a city of the second class, was in favor of running on a 10-mill levy and said many other like things, but that now he had changed his colors and favored raising salaries and running the city wide open on a first-class basis.

John J. McMillan said the thing for the league to do was to watch the council and enjoin that body from making reckless expenditures. tures. The difficulty was that the members allowed interest to relax and let things go by default. He said the new council had so far done what was right. "Don't kick before you are hurt," he said. "It is time enough to cross the bridge when you get to it." He said he considered the action of the league in roasting Mayor Johnston cowardly; that he should have been invited to attend the meeting and defend the charges.

"Johnston is a member and should attend our meetings without an invitation," interrupted Captain Cockerell.

Mr. Montgomery said he had never before lived in a city where it was customary for an organization of taxpayers to meet week after week to criticize the acts of men who had pledged themselves to do certain things before election. He was ashamed of some of the pledges he had made to men before election as to what the administration would do. Promise after promise and nothing but promises became decidedly "chestnutty" and discouraging in time.

Mr. Breen introduced a resolution recom mending that the salaries of city officers be mending that the salaries of city officers be reduced as follows: Councilmen, $200 a year; city attorney, $1,000; city clerk, $750; police judge, $750; engineer, $5 per day when actually employed, thus saving the city $2,000 a year, with a recommendation that the resolution be sent to the council.

Reception to Mrs. Fawcett. In honor of Mrs. George E. Fawcett, who lately came to Omaha from Galena, Ill., as a bride, Mrs. Frank Stryker of 915 North Twenty-second street, South Omaha, gave a very pretty reception yesterday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock, assisted by Miss Fawcett and Miss Mae Fawcett, Mrs. Alfred Cornish and Mrs. J. S. Virtue. The cosy cottage was very prettily decorated with roses, smilax, paims and potted plants, the table decorations being especially tasteful. Miss Anna Glasgow and Mrs. Bruce McCulloch rendered some instrumental music and Miss Mae Fawcett a vocal selection. Very dainty refreshments were served and each of the ladies present received a rose as a favor. Those present were: Mesdames George E. Those present were: Mesdames George E. Mutilated the Court Docket. Some time during Monday night unknown parties entered the police station and mutilated the court docket so it cannot be used any more. Great blotches of ink were spilled upon the records, and forty or fifty leaves were torn from the fastenings. Four leaves were taken out bodlly, and after being crimpled up were thrown on the floor. These were recovered and straightened so by a little patching the whole record can be preserved for reference, but the book Neither the judge nor the police have any idea who the miscreant can be, but if caught the sentence will not be a light one.

By direction of the commissioners County Auditor Tate has been checking up ex-County Judge Eller's office for the term that official occupied it and the finance committee has decided, after listening to the report of the auditor, to report at the meeting this afternoon that Eller quit the office owing a sum of money to the county. It is understood that this is not due to any great extent to the failure to account for fees, but rather to an unwarranted expenditure in the way of salaries for help employed in the

There are fees of which no trace can be found and among these are those on wenty-two marriage licenses. The auditor was obliged to call upon ex-Chief Clark Walkup on several occasions for assistance in unraveling the records of the office, as they were in such shape that it was impossible for him to trace out some of the matters alone.

She said Bill had complimented her on her It will be remembered that Eller insisted n the barn at midnight he would measure on a much larger office force than had ever imbs with her. Some of the testimony was before been employed in the office and it was given out that everything about the hristman had to rap for order. Esther was still on the stand when court adjourned at place was to be kept in the best of shape Attorney Doud conducted the case from that time forward. Now that the official investigation of the office has been completed it is found that, while the recordenough in his company and had frequently come to his house. He had never harmed ing in the office was but a month behind her in any way, but that the girl had been when Judge Eller took charge of it, it was eighteen months behind when he turned the ffice over to his successor, Judge Baxter. Eller convinced the commissioners that it In the afternoon John Wallander, father of was necessary to give him a larger force in threats to him, and he was of the opinion order to keep everything up to date and in shipshape, and was allowed seven clerks, but when Judge Baxter stepped in, the number was reduced to six. Not satisfied with his seven, Eller increased the number on his own motion to nine without any authority . Olson testified as to the contents of the letters alleged to have been written by Johnson to Esther. One letter, she said, contained threats that Johnson would injure from the board, and one of the rat holes where missing money has gone was for the missed without putting any witnesses on payment of these two extra clerks. The commissioners also have the right to fix the salaries of the clerks in the office, and did so. the stand. The court overruled the motion. Attorney Doud, who appeared for the de-fendant, said it looked very much to him but Eller took it upon himself to disregard the action of the board and allow them from as though the court had already decided on what he would do, and he refused to $20 to $45 each more per month than authorized by the board. Whether or not the clerks actually received this money is not stated, introduce any evidence. Judge Christmann then bound Johnson over to the district court but it is reported by Eller as a part of the financial transactions of the office. He stated n the sum of $100. The bond was promptly verbally, however, that this extra compensa-tion had been so arranged that he could get back and turn it in if the board refused to ourt with his mouth wide open absorbing

When Judge Baxter took charge of the office, he told the commissioners that six elerks would be sufficient if the board would allow extra help for a while in order to have the recording caught up, but he ob-jected to having to do work that should have been done by Eller, and then have it charged to his term. Some of the commissioners have investigated this matter, and have personally expressed the belief that it should be done by a special force and charged against Eller's term pretty mellow and was meandering down an alleyway back of Fisher's drug store when WHEELER ESTATE MATTER. One instance of Eller's method of doing business came to light in the court room he was confronted by two men. One of then shoved a revolver in his face and demanded that he fork over what money he had. Graham was penniless. The two men then threw him down and stripped him of his coat Monday, and called forth some rather plain animadversions on the part of Judge Baxter. The case was that of the guardianship of Burt Glendower Wheeler. When Burt Wheeler, a court reporter, dled some time and vest, threatening to shoot if he made any outery. Graham is positive that Gal-lagher is one of the highwaymen, and went ago, his estate, including life insurance, amounted to about $4,000, which was divided equally between the widow and child. so far as to identify him before Gallagher was locked up. The police have a good description of the other fellow, and will arrest An effort was made to have J. B. Long, an Iowa relative, appointed guardian of the child, but he was unable to qualify, and the matter was allowed to run along as it was, The local committee that has the work the property, amounting to about $1,950, remaining in the hands of Judge Eller until in hand of entertaining the delegates of the last day of his term, when he appointed Gus Hamel guardian, and required Hamel to file an inventory showing that he (Hamel) had received the amount above named in cash, in behalf of his ward. the National Ancient Order of Hibernian convention has arranged the line of march to be followed when the visitors come to South will be eighty carriages. Coming down Twenty-fourth streets, the procession will turn west on L street, crossing the viaduc:

eash, in behalf of his ward.

Everything appeared to be all straight so far as the record in the case was concerned, and it was not until F. A. McMillan, a friend of the child, as he had also been of the parents, entered complaint before the court charging that the guardian was un-faithful to his trust, and asking that an inquiry be made that Hamel was cited to appear before the court, and then the whole matter came out.

It seems that when the guardianship was The gentlemen from this city who have been invited to attend the banquet in Omaha conferred upon Hamel by Eller, the prop-erty was not turned over, with the excep-tion of $118, but that Hamel was given are Hon. W. N. Babcock, Father Moriarity and Mayor Ed T. Johnson. the personal notes of Judge Eller and his brother, Joshua M. Eller, for the amount, Walker Clay and J. G. Nickle were both What became of the money is not stated, but it is a fact that it was not turned over by Judge Eller to the guardian. At various subsequent times small amounts were paid to Hamel by Eller, the total fined a nominal sum in the police court yesterday for dumping manure inside the city limits. Nickle paid the fine, but Attorney Elliott, who appeared for Clay, says he will contest the legality of the garbage ordinance, claiming that it is defective in many ways. The hearing is set for Satur-tay morning. Clay gave a bond for his ap-were paid to Hamel by Eller, the total sum thus paid aggregating $365, as dis-closed by Hamel's evidence in court, but the bulk of the property, amounting to $1,500, has not yet been transferred. It further appears that as soon as Eller got wind of the fact that an investigation had been begun, he made immediate prepar-ations to get from under, and did so by in-ducing Hamel to surrender the original notes on which he appeared as one of the makers, and gave in their place the note of Joshua M. Eller, on which the judge appeared merely as guarantor of collection. The notes were respectively for one year, six months, and on demand.

ELLER LESS LIABLE NOW. Under the original notes Judge Eller was equally hable, but under the later ones it would be impossible to collect from the judge until all remedy against his brother had been exhausted, as well as against a quarter section in the Kimball county sand hills, on which a mortgage was given by the brother to secure the claim. Inasmuch, however, as the evidence adduced in court was to the effect that this property is not worth to exceed $600, there seems to be ample leeway for a deficit.

One of the very peculiar features of this wholly unusual transaction is the fact that Judge Eller appointed Hamel on the very last day of his term, thus avoiding what would have otherwise been the necessity of accounting to his successor for this money on

Still another noticeable feature is the fact that Judge Eller took pains to require the guardian's bond to be filed, as well as the illing of the inventory on the same day of the appointment, and further than this entered everything on the record and signed t, entirely closing up the case, although he recording was eighteen months behind and the last previous entry on the record was in November, 1892, skipping from then until the last day of his term in the early part of January, 1894.

Judge Baxter, in passing on the case, severely censured Hamel for his conduct in allowing the exchange of notes and removed him from his position as guardian, on the ground that he was "incapable, unsuitable and unfaithful." Isaac Adams was ap-pointed in his place and his bond fixed at

The court also scored ex-Judge Eller and The court also scored extended the at-terneys of Hamel, and Eller hung his bead as the court expressed his opinion of the whole transaction. The position taken by the court is that Judge Eller is still holden for the entire amount and that the notes are for the entire amount and that the notes are of no importance whatever, as the money was never turned over to Hamel, and that in view of this fact it is deabtful if Ham l's bondsmen could be rightfully held for the amount. As a matter of fact one of Hamel's bondsmen was interrogated by the court and said that it would be impossible for a judgment for the amount to be collected from
